ARIVACA MINE LOOKS GOOD.

Alex. Rossi, Charles Bleiman and Sam Heineman motored yesterday to Arivaca, accompanied by E. M. Ray, a mining engineer of Pittsburg, who went out for the purpose of inspecting the property of the Combination Mining & Milling company, situated about five miles from Arivaca. The property consists of seven claims and is being worked for gold under the management of Joe Vezzetti, formerly of the Empire Zinc company at San Xavier, and who is one of the principal stockholders.

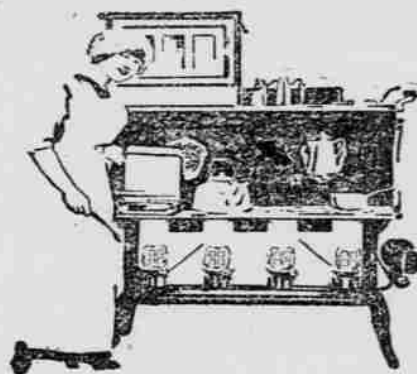

Mr. Ray made an encouraging report, finding the shaft down 110 feet all in gold-bearing ore from the surface, the ledge being eighteen inches wide at the 60-foot level and thirty-two inches wide at the 100-foot level. The ledge runs east and west, and drifting will be commenced at once for 100 feet each way from the shaft. A tunnel has been commenced down the hill to connect with the shaft.

Assays run from $40 to $100 per ton. A carload, about fifty tons, of assorted ore will be shipped in about three weeks time, and a small concentrating plant will be at once erected, as the ore will be shipped to a smelter. The outlook is very encouraging for a successful enterprise.—Star.

Corporation Commission Makes New Rule.

The Arizona Corporation Commission has just handed down a ruling that will make all corporations within the State sit up and take notice that they must explicitly obey the laws, and that is that on and after the first day of June, 1915, all corporations doing business within the state must keep their books, records and accounts inside of the State. This action is said to be in compliance of the law enacted nearly two years ago, and also to allow the Tax Commission, as well as the Corporation Commissioners to audit the books of the public service corporations, and also to get at the expense and profits of the corporations that the Commission has put the rule into effect. Accounts and books will have to be kept at the principal place of doing business within the state.

This rule will cause many of the corporations of the state to sit up and take notice. Many of the corporations have gone to Phoenix to file their articles on account of the cheapness and have made that place their principal business office. Now they will have to amend to bring their office to the place where their real principal place of business within the State is. And many of the companies have not been obeying the law by paying off in checks on banks within the State, which is one of the requirements of the law.—Miner.
